

EU/Chile Advanced Framework Agreement

2023/0260R(NLE) - 29/02/2024 - Text adopted by Parliament, single reading

The European Parliament adopted by 319 votes to 113, with 121 abstentions, a resolution on the proposal for a Council decision on the conclusion, on behalf of the European Union, of the Advanced Framework Agreement between the European Union and its Member States, of the one part, and the Republic of Chile, of the other part.

Parliament stated that the modernised EU-Chile Advanced Framework Agreement promotes common values and principles, has the potential to considerably strengthen cooperation between Chile and the EU, extend it to new areas and offer mutual support for tackling new global challenges.

Political dialogue and sectoral cooperation

The resolution welcomed the fact that the Agreement provides for strengthened political cooperation on foreign and security matters amid geopolitical challenges, in particular as regards countering the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction. It pointed out that the Parties agreed to cooperate and exchange views in the areas of regular and irregular migration.

Members consider it important that the Agreement contains provisions on cooperation in the fight against organised crime and drug trafficking in order to ensure an integrated, evidence-based and effective approach. They also welcomed the commitment to strengthen cooperation in the fight against the climate crisis and to effectively implement the Paris Agreement on Climate Change, as well as the protection of the environment and the sustainable management of natural resources.

Trade and investment pillar

The resolution welcomed the ambitious and comprehensive nature of the trade and investment pillar of the Agreement. It noted that 99 % of tariff lines will be fully liberalised and over 95 % of trade between the EU and Chile will be duty-free under the Agreement.

Members welcomed the fact that the chapter on trade and sustainable development (TSD) contains ambitious and binding commitments on environmental and labour standards. They underlined the importance of an ambitious review to bring the agreements into line with the objectives of the EU Green Deal and the EU's TSD reform proposals, which would add provisions to enhance the enforcement mechanism of the TSD chapter, including the possibility to apply a compliance phase, and trade sanctions as a measure of last resort in cases of failure to comply with the Paris Agreement or the ILO's fundamental principles and rights at work.

Parliament welcomed the Parties' commitment to promote the development of international trade in a way that is conducive to decent work for all, in particular women, young people and people with disabilities, in line with their respective obligations under the ILO. It also welcomed the inclusion of a stand-alone dedicated chapter on trade and gender, the first of its kind in an EU trade agreement.

Members acknowledged the elimination of tariffs on EU exports, leaving 99.9 % of exports tariff-free. They also recognised the efforts made on protecting sensitive EU agricultural products such as meat (beef, poultry, pig and sheep meat), certain fruits and vegetables (e.g. garlic, apple juice, grape juice) and olive oil by imposing limited and controlled access for highly sensitive products using TRQs, and excluding sugar and bananas from any trade liberalisation, with the aim of protecting EU production.

The resolution recognised that the Agreement protects a further 216 EU agricultural geographical indications (GIs) and 18 Chilean GIs, in addition to the existing agreements on wines and spirits, which protect 1745 EU GIs for wines and 257 EU GIs for spirits and aromatised wines.

Parliament believes that EU trade policy should contribute to achieving and implementing together the highest food safety, social, environmental, animal welfare and human rights standards.

The EU and Chile are encouraged to consider bilateral or multilateral cooperation in the development of sustainable and environmentally responsible production practices and the exchange of best practices in research, innovation and technological development. Moreover, the Commission and Member States are urged to ensure a level playing field for all agricultural, fishery and aquaculture products marketed in the Union regardless of their origin, including those originating in Chile. Members welcomed the fact the Agreement contains a series of actions for both the EU and Chile in support of efforts to combat illegal, unreported and unregulated (IUU) fishing practices.

Members expect that the provisions on investment liberalisation and investment protection will further boost sustainable investments in both directions. They welcomed the dedicated chapter on SMEs, which account for a large proportion of EU-Chile trade.

The resolution emphasised Chile's leading role as a major supplier of critical raw materials, including those that are essential for the green and digital transitions, such as lithium and copper. The Chilean partners are commended for their commitment to cooperate with the EU on critical raw material supplies.

Institutional provisions

Parliament recalled that the Agreement will require ratification at both EU and Member State level, whereas the Interim Trade Agreement, which contains only the trade and investment elements falling within the EU's exclusive competence, will enter into force upon its ratification by Parliament and the Council. It takes the view that the splitting of the Agreement to speed up the ratification process fully respects the distribution of competences between the EU and its Member States and allows for a swift ratification of the parts falling under the EU's exclusive competence, while maintaining the comprehensive nature of the Agreement.
