PURPOSE: to conclude an Agreement establishing an Association between the European Union and its Member States, on the one hand, and Central America on the other

NON-LEGISLATIVE ACT: Council Decision (EU) 2024/1156 on the conclusion of the Agreement establishing an Association between the European Union and its Member States, on the one hand, and Central America on the other.

CONTENT: under this Decision, the agreement establishing an association between the European Union and its Member States, on the one hand, and Central America on the other, is approved on behalf of the Union.

This is the final step of the ratification process of the agreement, through which the EU and Central America commit to a close, long-term relationship in all main policy areas.

The agreement aims to strengthen and consolidate the relations between the parties through an association based on three mutually reinforcing and fundamental parts: political dialogue, cooperation and trade. Furthermore, it will:

- develop a privileged political partnership based on values, principles and common objectives, in particular the respect for and the promotion of democracy and human rights, sustainable development, good governance and the rule of law enhance bi-regional cooperation between the EU and Central America in all areas of common interest expand and diversify the parties' bi-regional trade relation in conformity with the World Trade Organization (WTO) agreement and this agreement;
- strengthen and deepen regional integration in areas of common interest;
- reinforce good neighbourly relations and the principle of peaceful resolution of disputes;
- maintain and develop the level of good governance, social, labour and environmental standards;
- foster increased trade and investment among the parties.

The trade pillar of the association agreement has played an important role in promoting trade and investment between Europe and Central America. It has been provisionally applied since 1 August 2013 with Honduras, Nicaragua and Panama, since 1 October 2013 with Costa Rica and El Salvador, and since 1 December 2013 with Guatemala. This pillar eliminated most import tariffs and improved access to government procurement and investment markets. It creates a more predictable environment for trade in Central America, with a mediation mechanism for non-tariff barriers and a bilateral dispute settlement mechanism. Furthermore, interaction with civil society under the trade and sustainable development chapter have proven fruitful to highlight broader benefits of the agreement.

Furthermore, the agreement will also provide a strengthened enabling framework for the implementation of the EU's Global Gateway investment strategy, supporting infrastructure and improving global and regional connectivity in the digital, climate, transport, health, energy and education sectors.

The agreement establishes an effective institutional framework for its implementation including both an Association Council as well as an Association Committee supported by a set of sub-committees to allow for work and consultations on the various areas covered in the trade part of the Agreement and a bilateral dispute settlement mechanism.

ENTRY INTO FORCE: 12.04.2024.
