Framework for the creation of the single European sky

2001/0060(COD) - 25/03/2003

The Council introduced some general changes relative to the Commission's proposal. These changes are both of form and substance. Even though the Council took a more conservative approach to reflect Member States' prerogatives under national defence policies and international obligations, these changes are acceptable because they would ensure the aims of the regulation were met.